MOST IMPORTANT DISCOVERY OF THE DAY.

To Sheep-farmers and the Public in general.

F. C. Calvert's Phenyline & Terebane Sheep Salve

The great reputation these specifics have enjoyed in England on account of their extraordinary success in all cases where they have been applied, has induced the proprietor to introduce them in this market on account of the immense sheep farming interest of the country. To enable sheep-farmers to obviate in future the enormous losses they sustain yearly, not only in the deterioration of the Sheep, but also, as frequently happens, the loss of the animal itself. It is a powerful antiseptic, and he only asks a fair trial, feeling confident of the result. The following is a list of some of the uses to which these antiseptics may be applied—

In Sheep—To cure maggots, footrot, scab, lice, tick.

In Horses—Canker in the foot, grease, quitter, all cangrenous wounds or ulcers, cracked heels, mange, &c.

Cows; distemper, and all diseases of the hoofs.

For wounds or bruises resulting from accident and for all general Veterinary purposes these remedies are sure. Phenyline is found to be remarkably successful in the Hospitals in England for curing Cancer. Terebene is also used for preserving hides, skins and bones from all vermin and insects, the parcels already cured with it in this city and Australia have merited the approval of purchasers in England who report them to be perfectly sound and sweet. The leather made from the hides is also declared to be superior in every respect

SATURDAY, AUGUST 22, 1863.

INTERVENTION.

More than four months have now elapsed since Flores left our shores to invade the Banda Oriental. We have all had an opportunity of witnessing the allegiance of the people of that country to the Government of President Berro. We have seen that during the four months' rebellion not one town, not a village, not a hamlet, has risen up to join the invader. We have beheld a happy, peaceable, country, plunged into the horrors (not of a civil war but) of a cut-throat struggle, with a ruthless band of invaders, who possess neither sympathy nor influence in the country which they have overrun. We have seen scores of fellows leave this and other provinces to invade this friendly and unoffending neighbour. We have read the unjustifiable articles published daily in the native press of this city, defending this unprecedented revolution. We have seen all this, and much more. It now becomes our duty to ask the people of the country how much longer is this to last? This invasion of the Banda Oriental by a few men, has plunged the country into all sorts of anarchy, and filled the woods with a set of cowardly runaways. It has stopped the saladeros, injured the estancieros, and paralysed the commerce of the place. The legal Government of the country is impotent to oppose it. The whole mass of the native people, instead of joining with Flores, only pray to Heaven to be allowed to remain in their homes to protect their property.

Shall this nefarious rebellion be permitted to go on, until every foreigner in that country is beggared, and the native population decimated? Shall Mr. Flores, then, on the ruins of his country, ascend the Presidential chair, and be permitted to draw a wet sponge over all that has passed?

It will, of course, be said that foreigners have no business to interfere, and that the natives should be left to fight it out amongst themselves, but we apprehend the hour has arrived when three-fourths of the population, representing over four fifths of the whole capital of the country, should have a voice in the matter. Foreigners in the Banda Oriental own four fifths of the wealth, and are, numerically speaking, three-fourths of the population. When an interest so great as that which foreigners represent in the Uruguay, is placed in jeopardy, not by the rising of the native people of the country against a despotic government, but by a handful of fellows, who failing in their attempts to get the people to join them, set about importing all the unemployed gauchos of the Pampa to carry death and devastation through this once happy and peaceful land—we feel, indeed, that if such things be tolerated any longer, Sr. Pinero was right when he said that foreign ministers and foreign agents and consuls, are of no earthly use in these countries, and the sooner they return to the countries which they pretend to

FLORES NEWS.

The Flores drama is we hope at last drawing to a close. Medina by latest advices is before him. A battle must be fought, and we regret sincerely to say that we think the odds are in favour of the rebels. Medina we are told has 230 foot and 1600 horse; this is a very respectable force, but our experience in these South American fights has proved that the Gaucho can be only relied on when fighting against the legal Government, and with the hope of pillage, &c. Medina, if he wishes to vanquish Flores, must dismount his men, teach them the bayonet, and render flight impossible. Cavalry in these countries can never be relied on, and it is the opinion of all who are thoroughly conversant with the actual strength of Flores that 600 determined men would rid the country of this ambitious capataz. Owing to the monstrous lies and stories circulated by both parties, it is extremely difficult to get at the facts. It appears however, beyond all doubt that Bastarica is with Medina, and Caraballo and Carabajal with Flores.

Flores it is said has divided his force into three bodies, 200 with Caraballo march on Paysandu, 400 remain with Flores, and 150 have been sent up to the north of the Arapey, for the purpose of protecting recruits who are expected from Brazil and Corrientes. If this is true the fate of Flores is settled, but we very much doubt if so experienced an officer would weaken himself by dividing his army almost in the very presence of a superior force.

Villasboas disembarked with 200 men in Fray Bentos to fight Saldaña, but found that this fellow had cleared out some days previously, and was marching on Mercedes. A chasque arrived in hot pursuit after him, with an order for his immediate return to Paysandu, so Fray Bentos was again left to its fate.

Saldaña it appears is at the Colladeras, and has taken some runaways of Medina's army, who state that Caraballo had defeated Medina's vanguard.

It is said that some of Moreno's officers arrived in Montevideo with the news that his cavalry had dispersed in consequence of three or four having been shot for refusing to march to Medina. It was also rumoured that Bastarica had been murdered by his own men, in consequence of his alleged cruelties.

The Flores party were anxiously expecting Sandes and Rivas, and about 200 young men from Buenos Ayres, before he commenced the storming of Salto.

THE NEW STATION.

A petition signed by nearly all the respectable residents, both native and foreign, between Moreno and the Villa Luxan has been presented to Government, praying that a railway station shall be erected midway between those two towns.

The distance from Moreno to Luxan is more than seven leagues, and it would be the very height of injustice towards the proprietors of land who have given their property gratis for the making of the road, to refuse so reasonable a request.

Besides the great convenience which a midway station would be to the neighbours, it is also the positive interest of the Government, as it will secure more freight for the road; parties who are obliged to load bullock carts with wool for Moreno, may as well send the carts into town, and thus avoid the inconvenience of loading and unloading in the train. It is the interest therefore of all, that a station-house be built in the locality mentioned. We hope therefore that the Government will adopt the measure. Whilst occupied with this railway, we may remark that it is a shame the Government contractors are proceeding so slowly; forty or fifty men are employed to continue this road when 500 should have been working daily since the extension was commenced.

ERMENEGILDO LIGUORI'S CONCERT.

This youthful pianist, whose age, we believe, is only eleven years, made his first public appearance in the concert rooms of Colon on Thursday night. The attendance was fashionable and select.

The concert commenced with a duet from Rossini's 'Barber of Seville,' which was well sung by Vitali and Bertolini; after which Ermenegildo made his first appearance, and played on the piano, with the most masterly execution, 'Do not mingle,' from 'Sonnambula,' with variations, at the conclusion of which the juvenile artist was greeted with rapturous applause.

Madame Mollo, who has gained for herself such a deserved popularity, then came forward, and sung a solo, from the opera of 'Louisa Miller.'

Probably the greatest treat of the night, after Madame Mollo's inimitable ... a matter of astonishment to all, how he could play with such force, precision and feeling.

At a quarter to ten the concert finished, and all left, well pleased at the delightful musical entertainment of the evening.

ENGLISH BLOOD HORSE.

The country has sustained another loss, in the death of the very promising thorough-bred stallion, 'Young Kingston,' who was the property of Don Masimo Elia and Don F. Plows. The horse died suddenly.

Don Masimo left his estancia in the morning, en route for the city, about ten or twelve days ago, the horse being quite well, and in fine condition. On the road a chasque overtook him with the intelligence of the death of 'Kingston.'

Of the five thorough-bred Stallions brought to this country, at great cost and trouble, but two now remain. 'Bonnie Dundee' was cut off in his prime; 'Echo' died at the ripe age of 16 or 17 years, and 'Young Kingston has now followed them, having only served one year, and not having attained his fifth year. His stock should be of great value, as the blood is of the very highest cast, and comprising by far the greatest number of winners of the present day. 'Young Kingston' was got by 'Kingston,' and 'Kingston' by 'Venison.'

The two remaining bloodsires, are 'Buckhunter' and Hobgoblin,' the former by 'Fallow Buck,' the latter by 'Alarm;' both these by 'Venison.'

MEXICAN RELIEF.

Mr. Editor,

You will much oblige me, and a few of my countrymen, by inquiring of the noble-minded and patriotic gentlemen who got up yesterday's ceremony in the Cathedral, why collections were not made at the church door for the widows and orphans of the Pueblan victims? I have no doubt, that had this been done, some of the fashionable ladies, members of Congress, estancieros, and country justices of the peace, whom I saw so devoutly praying for the eternal repose of the dead Pueblans, would willingly have given their mite for the live ones.

Yours, &c.,

TAMPICO.

LATEST FROM THE URUQUAY.

We have the 'Pueblo,' of Gualeguaychu, up to the 18th inst. It states that the Argentine war steamer, Pampero, towed three boats, filled with filibusters, towards Fray Bentos, and lent valuable aid to the rebels.

Caraballo made a rapid movement on the 12th, at night, near the Queguay.

General Medina, with 600 infantry and 2,500 cavalry, forded the Toros pass on the 7th, and his vanguard reached Arroyo Malo on the 10th, when Flores and Caraballo fled precipitately to Arerunguà.

Persons of delicate constitution, will be glad to perceive that Mr Solomon Maw, of London, has just sent out to this city an apparatus for giving steam-baths, at whatever degree prescribed by the physician. The office is the Botica del Indio, 310, Rivadavia, and we wonder the proprietor does not advertise in our columns. Apropos of baths. Our readers will remember the anecdote of the young doctor, who went to Smyrna, and returned in disgust, saying 'there are no patients to be found there, for everybody bathes twice a day.'

The funerals of Puebla were well attended yesterday, the Cathedral being crowded with a respectable congregation. Governor Saavedra was present, but no foreign ministers, nor the Bishop. Several foreigners attended from curiosity. A native gentleman inquired of us by what right Dr. A Alsina invited people to pray, as he thought it the Bishop's duty to say 'Orate fratres.' The ceremony cost $ 5,000; the singing was pretty good, the building nicely draped in black, and the catafalque tastefully arranged with armorial devices, Mexican flags, &c.

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING OF THE B. AYRES BRITISH LIBRARY.

August 20th, 1863.

The subscribers to the British Library met this evening to receive the report of the outgoing committee, and to appoint a new committee for the ensuing year.

The Rev. Mr. Smith having been unanimously voted into the chair, after a few introductory remarks called upon the Secretary, who rose and read the following Report of the Committee of Management for the year 1862-3.

At the close of its term of office your Committee has the pleasure of congratulating you on the comparative progress and efficiency of the institution.

The Reading Rooms have been maintained on a respectable and apparently satisfactory footing, and during the course of the year, 154 volumes have been added to the shelves of the Library. Of these, 115 may be classed as novels, 14 of history and travels, 7 biographical, 6 books of reference, and 12 miscellaneous.

At first sight the proportion of light reading may appear excessive, but it happens to be the class most in demand and any attempt to coerce so popular a tendency would be found worse than useless.

As to books of reference, your committee considers the present supply as amply sufficient, and that few additions will be required for some time to come, and as they are generally costly works, this alone will leave a wider margin for the other departments.

Your Committee would also suggest to the meeting, or to the ensuing Committee, the propriety of extending the term allowed for reading of standard works, and that members should be allowed to take out simultaneously a standard work, and one of the more popular caste. At present, as the records of the Library conclusively show, the demand for standard works is so very limited that every facility should be afforded for their circulation.

A printed catalogue for the use of members has been a desideratum of long standing. Shortly after entering upon office your Committee took the matter into serious consideration, and on consulting with Messrs. Mulhall on the means of carrying it out, these gentlemen, with their usual liberality, offered to publish it on their own account limiting the selling price to five dollars per copy. This generous offer your Committee readily & gratefully accepted.

The original intention had been to remodel the written catalogue, which might have saved both labour and expense, but the Messrs. Mulhall insisted on commencing at once, before dispersing the staff of workmen that had been employed on the River Plate Handbook. Under these circumstances your Committee had no alternative left but to forego so advantageous an offer, or to hand over the manuscript catalogue with its complicate arrangements, and unnecessary repetitions.

The catalogue now on the table though not all that your Committee could have wished, is still an immense boon to the reading portion of the community, and entitles the publishers to the warmest thanks, of the subscribers to the Library.

Your Committee regrets to announce a decrease of 11 in the list of members, 48 having withdrawn, whilst only 37 new names have been added. These fluctuations are to be accounted for chiefly by the shifting and unsettled elements of a foreign community. The total number of subscribers is 100—two of whom are camp subscribers.

In a few cases, and only a few, the increased rate of Contribution, sanctioned by the last General Meeting was alleged as the pretext. As to the expediency and necessity of that measure, your Committee is now thoroughly persuaded. The Institution must be made self supporting, and two hundred dollars per annum is the lowest rate that will do that, and at the same time is a very moderate charge for those who choose to avail themselves of all its privileges.

In fact the serious depreciation of our currency has to a great extent neutralized the effect of said increase, and in the present case all the remittances have been made on terms very disadvantageous to the Institution, by time when a large proportion of the subscriptions falls due, and when the accounts for the year must necessarily be settled up.

One instance however of genuine liberality deserves to be recorded. In settling with Mr. Barclay for the new Encyclopedia which he purchased during his late visit to Great Britain, he generously ceded in favor of the institution a considerable sum of money to which he was justly entitled.

Following up the suggestion of a public concert, mooted at last General Meeting, your Committee sounded some of the leading members of the Glee Club but found their sympathies pre-engaged in favor of another British Institution of equal merit. In short your Committee considers it unsafe to rely on these occasional efforts, in other words, that it is absolutely necessary to make the Institution self-supporting, and, reflecting on its paramount importance to so numerous community, it cannot despair of seeing this effected.

In order to present greater attractions, and to maintain a continued interest in the Institution, your Committee adopted the plan of sending small orders for books by each mail steamer. This may entail some additional trouble on the Committee of management, and perhaps some additional expense in the shape of freight and minor charges; still it appears sound in principle, and may merit the attention of the ensuing Committee.

The Librarian having represented the considerable trouble he had in collecting some of the subscriptions, your Committee as a temporary measure allowed him two per cent on the amount of his collections; and here it is proper to remark that Mr. Duffy has discharged all his duties with the utmost punctuality, and to the entire satisfaction of your Committee.

For full information as to the financial working, and situation of the Institution, your Committee refer to the Treasurer's account current.

In conclusion your Committee has to remind you of the Revised Code of Rules and Regulations that still awaits the sanction of a General Meeting, its repeated efforts to obtain a General Meeting specially for that purpose having proved ineffectual. It is perhaps of some importance that the ensuing Committee should be organised on the footing therein suggested.

Buenos Ayres, August 20th, '63.

GILBERT RAMSAY,
President.
JOHN WHYTE,
Treasurer.
REGINALD COOPER,
Secretary.
J. L. MACRAE. PETER BEARE.

The Treasurer then read over his account current, which will be given to-morrow.

Mr. Williamson rose and moved the adoption of the report and Treasurer's account current. Mr. Auchterlonie seconded, and the motion being put to the meeting, was carried unanimously.

The Chairman, in a few words, begged to ask if any member wished to make any remark or suggestion in connection with the report they had just heard read.

Mr. Grigg expatiated on the evils arising from the subscription falling due at different periods of the year, in consequence of which a committee found itself in doubt as to its resources. He proposed that all subscriptions should be made to fall due at a given date. Here a great discussion ensued, Mr Forrester proposing to make the financial year commence January 1st, and Mr. Williamson preferring four quarterly periods.

Mr. Auchterlonie moved as amendment, and Mr. Nicholson seconded: "That the present mode of collection be continued." Carried by a large majority.

Mr. Forrester rebuked the ungenerous and selfish policy of the Glee Club in refusing to aid the Institute by a vocal entertainment, although they rendered this service for the British Hospital. He did not hesitate to say the Library was more deserving, and more useful to our society, for it ministers to the mind, while the hospital only took care of diseased strangers, sailors, &c., being of little use to the young men of Buenos Ayres, who, although subscribers, would be obliged to pay for its hospitality if such became necessary.

Mr. Williamson took exception to these remarks.

The Chairman begged to state in explanation that the Glee Club felt a difficulty in lending their professional services to any other than charitable institutions, of which the Library is not one.

Mr. Fallon then moved a vote of thanks to the out going committee for their satisfactory management during the past year, seconded by Mr. Nicholson and carried nem con.

The Chairman then invited the members to elect a new comittee, a list having been drawn up for the purpose, Mr. Wells vigorously objected to these lists, as the votes should be spontaneous. Blank billets were then handed round, and each member writing down 7 names the ballot resulted as follows—Nicholson 18, Chisholm 13, Forrester ... Weston 11. J. Whyte 10. Douglas 9. Fallon 8 Cooper 6. The five names first in order were accordingly elected as committee, and the rest as "suplentes," including the Treasurer and Secretary of last year who were requested to sit ex-officio, on the new committee

It was proposed to reform the rules of the Library, but Mr. Wells moved for a postponement, the hour being advanced (9 30). A large majority of the meeting being of this idea, the members present pledged themselves to attend on a future day to be fixed by the committee.

Mr. Ramsey then rose to call attention to the marked liberality of the editors of the "Standard," who had rendered frequent and important services, gratuitously, to the Library, and ever evinced a most friendly and obliging disposition. He therefore proposed that Messrs. Mulhall should be elected honorary members.

Mr. Nicholson warmly seconded the motion.

Mr. Grigg enquired if the rules permitted the same.

Mr. Ramsay felt there was no difficulty, nor would a single member of the Library, if all were present, oppose the vote.

Mr. Forester said he had before reason to admire the generosity of Messrs. Mulhall in all national enterprises of this and a similar character. Their services for the Library, alone, would satisfy not one, but ten subscriptions.

The vote was carried unanimously, and Mr. M. G. Mulhall returned thanks.

Mr. Grigg proposed, and Mr. McCrae seconded a vote of thanks to the Chairman. Carried by acclamation.

The Chairman in acknowledging the compliment, spoke of the high utility of the Library, and the necessity of making it more attractive by getting up evening classes, lectures, &c. He stated that he himself, and the Rev. Messrs. Ford and Goodfellow were willing to give any assistance in their power for this end.

The meeting then broke up 10 p.m.

MISCELLANY.

A VACANCY.—The Washington correspondent of the 'New York Herald' writes:—There is a curious story in circulation here, related on authority that is generally considered reliable. It appears that there is at present residing in Belgium a distinguished French officer, named Bulow, Beuhler, or Beulet, I am not exactly certain which, who has a reputation for military knowledge and administrative ability. President Lincoln having heard of gentleman, sent him, through the War Department, an invitation to come to this country, offering to make him a Major-general of Volunteers, not with the view, however, of his taking the field, but of assuming the position of Assistant-Secretary of War, in which his capacity for organization would find full exercise. When the matter was broached to him he at once took steps to inform himself as to what kind of man the Secretary of War was. He was told that he was an educated lawyer, that he had been Attorney-General towards the close of Mr. Buchanan's Presidential term, and that suddenly, and without being much known to the country, he was made Secretary of War in place of Mr. Cameron. He also learned that he was a very impulsive man, and very domineering. The General, on hearing these facts, returned the following reply to the proposition:—'There are three objections to my going to your country in the capacity proposed to me. In the first place an impulsive man is of all others the most unfitted for the head of a War Department. In the next a domineering man is not a man I desire to serve under; and lastly, no military man of any regard for his reputation will ever consent to serve under a lawyer.' So that it is decided that the General is not to visit the United States, at least under the existing regime at the War Department."

SWIMMING ACROSS THE MERSEY.—A wind up to the annual contests among members of the Liverpool Athletic Club, under the designation of "Olympic names" a swimming match took place yesterday on the Mersey, the prize being one of the club medals. On Saturday last the other athletic competitions, held under the auspices of the club, took place in presence of a large concourse of spectators, and the swimming match took place as a wind-up to the sports. The course selected was from New Brighton to a flagboat moored off the landing stage. There were nine entries—viz., Messrs. F. Graham, Alex. Aitkin, G. Harford, R. A. O. Beaver, E. Bolton, M. McCullin, J. Pennington, W. L. Tease, and S. Miles. Of these, 8 competitors started, leaving New Brighton at 5 minutes before 12 o'clock at noon, the tide flowing, and the day calm, and, though cloudy, warm. Immense crowds of spectators lined the pierheads and landing-stages, and numerous parties were in boats and steamers on the river. In little more than five minutes after starting six of the eight competitors gave in and were taken ...

were reduced to two—Messrs. M'Cul[lin] and Aitkin, both of whom continued to swim in admirable style and with praiseworthy emulation. From the strength of the tidal current, the swimmers were carried well up the river before they could make any attempt to cross, which was not essayed until they reached a point nearly opposite to the Albert Warehouses, which was attained about one o'clock. At this point Mr. Aitkin became exhausted and was taken on board one of the boats, and M'Cullin, continuing in his career, passed the flagboat, was declared the winner of the medal, and got out of the water at 1 55 p.m., having been an hour and 40 minutes engaged in his arduous enterprise.

ON THE PROSPECTS OF COTTON CULTIVATION IN THE ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.

By Thomas J. Hutchinson, F.R.G.S., &c., H.B.M.'s Consul at Rosario.

During my passage through the inhabited parts of the provinces, for these are in these immense districts as desolate and uncultivated as in the Chaco wilderness, I explained to the governors and estancieros, who questioned me on the subject, my instructions from her Majesty's Government, namely, 'to seek for wild cotton.' To those who inquired if cotton cultivation was about to be introduced here by the British Government, I invariably answered 'No.' At the same time I consented to transmit to the Cotton Supply Association of Manchester, through the Foreign Office, any statement of their desires and opinions on the subject, merely suggesting that these should be founded on the following assurances:

1st. That the governors would lend their aid and authority to promote the cultivation of cotton.

2d. That the estancieros and holders of land were willing to devote some of their time and capital to the same object.

3d. If they thought well of attempting the work with the present population.

Although they invariably expressed, without my interrogating in the slightest degree, a desire to make commencement of a branch of agriculture which they look upon as a guardian of peace, as well as a source of wealth, the governors especially signified a dread of not being able to do much in the matter without emigration; for, they said, the existing population does not understand the modus operandi of cotton cultivation, and moreover, being brought up in the exciting work of gauchos, amongst horses, bullocks, and saladeros, it is to be feared there would be some difficulty in bringing them round to the tame labour of agricultural industry.

My general reply to these observations was a suggestion to them to make a beginning, even with the labour which they had, and thus let English capitalists see that there was industry here amongst which they might introduce their money, if so inclined, with a prospect of success.

General Don Antonino Taboada, with whom I was in communication for more than a week, told me he was very anxious to have cotton cultivated in his province; that he had seven leagues of land near Fort Bracho, on the right bank of the Rio Salado, which he would make over gratuitously to immigrants, and that he would give them all the aid and protection in his power. Connected with this, I hinted an idea to him, bearing on his Agricola-military forts, that extend from Navicha to a distance, on either side of the river, of a couple of hundred miles, and that contain a few thousand soldiers. Each of these men has a small plot of ground on which he cultivates pumpkins, melons, maize, wheat and barley for his family, and none of which he is allowed to sell till he can prove to his commanding officer that he has garnered up enough for the winter. My hint was to give to each of these soldiers, say ten grains of cotton seed at the proper time for sowing. They can be planted without any additional labour or ground, their pods collected by the children, and thus calculating an average of 2lb. in weight to each plant for the first year, he has a beginning of nearly 40,000lb. in weight of cotton flock, even with a small allowance for waste. This at the nominal price of 6d per lb, would realize from £2,000 to £3,000 sterling, besides providing seed enough for the whole province of Santiago. He said he would try it if I sent him the seed in the first instance which I engaged to do, as soon as I should receive it from the Cotton Supply Association of Manchester.

In this province there are at least 20,000 working men out of a population of above 100,000 inhabitants—men who work for one real (4½d.) per day, and whose feeding on beef and maize does not cost more than another real per head per day; for one bullock is found, with pumpkins, maize, or melons, sufficient for fifty men during five days, and this head of cattle costs only ten Bolivian dollars, or, in fact, 30s.

LOCAL EVENTS.

ARGENTINE NEUTRALITY—One hundred soldiers have been shipped from Entre Rios, with all our lawyers ministers, soldiers, generals, clerks &c. We are unable to stop this gross breach of neutrality. People believe Argentine neutrality, in Montevidean affairs, a humbug

GOOD PRIZE—The Villa Del Salto towed into Paysandu a first-rate whale-boat, belonging to some of our friends in Paseo Julio. She was taken in the Uruguay with some fifty fillibusters on board. She will be condemned and sold as a matter of course

BREAK DOWN—One of these long wine pipe carts broke down in Calle Victoria, on Wednesday, and caused a regular block-up, the casks got started, and good vino carlon and caña was flowing in streams in front of the 'Tribuna' office. The scene was very exciting. As a natural consequence, we remark a rather spirited attack upon the chief in yesterday's paper

On 'Change to-day there was a good deal of business done; over 25,000 were sold, and a general disposition to buy was perceptible amongst the brokers. There was a good deal of joking over the Alsina piety in the Cathedral, and one well known broker, who it appears claims Tamploo as his birth place, handed us a communication which our readers will find in another column.

Ounces like politics have changed round all at once. Last year any man who would dare to talk of a revolution would run the risk of being shipped off to Patagonia; to-day, however, nothing is more popular. So with ounces, last week any man who talked of ever seeing ounces again at 430 would be looked on as an outwitted speculator. To-day the tune has changed, and there were not wanting persons who talked of 450 as next months' custom-house figure. Without in the least participating in these ideas, we publish them, merely to show the instability of the market. Ounces were sold to-day for the end of the year at $2 higher than for cash only three days ago. Such monstrous fluctuations are beginning to show effects, and unpleasant rumours are being circulated. It is to be hoped that the Legislature will pass a law authorising a foreign loan, as there is nothing else to save us from absolute ruin.

It is to be observed that to-day the first sale of wool of the new clip was made. The price agreed on was pretty good. Owing to the drought, there will be a marked difference in the value of north and south Wool this year, and we hear that the two buyers are sending out agents to inspect the flocks in the north and report on their actual condition. The Esmeralda will leave on Sunday for Rosario, as the Pavon will lay up a few days to get cleaned.

IMPROVED REVOLVING PUMPS.

LINAY & SON,

[illegible]

No. 241 Calle de la Victoria.

Respectfully notify their friends, and those Estancieros who have seen or heard of the Patent Revolving (Rotatory) Pumps, that they have a few ready for use. Those who may be inclined to have any of them would do well to secure themselves now as in all probability the first class workmen now employed in the manufacture will, in a few days time, return to their former Engineering occupations, and that no pumps of this class will be made until next season.

COLEGIO ANGLO-PORTEÑO

205—CALLE MAYPU—205

This school has been established for several years, and is wellknown in this city.

No pains are spared to make the place of instruction attractive to the pupils, and the instruction itself profitable.

Patrons are respectfully invited to visit the school, and to note carefully the monthly reports of progress and deportment.

The English, Spanish, and French languages are carefully taught by skilful instructors, and every branch of useful or ornamental education may be prosecuted in either of these languages.

French and drawing are taught after school hours. Also an afternoon class for fancy work four times a week.

Day pupils can be received at any time, and a few could be accommodated as boarders or half-boarders.

Sept. 29th.
